MONTHLY UPDATE

Indian markets recovered strongly during March, following a period of weakness which we believed to be unjustified.

Mike recently met with 42 companies across four Indian cities and a variety of sectors. This on-the-ground research also confirms our positive view on the economy/market.

CPI declined further in February to 3.6% year on year.

During the month, we switched Axis Bank into Kotak Mahindra Bank and initiated a position in PB Fintech.

PERFORMANCE CONTRIBUTORS AND DETRACTORS

Indian markets bounced significantly during March, following a period of weakness which we believed to be unjustified. The main reason for our underperformance is that our stocks did not rise as rapidly as the wider index. We expect this to be only transitory.

The strongest performing sector was Utilities (where we have zero exposure), with Information Technology and Consumer Discretionary (where we have our largest overweight) significantly lagging in the early stages of this rally.

At a stock level, the largest negative contributors were from Aptus Value Housing (after a period of strong performance), Indusind Bank and Metro Brands. This was only partly offset by positive contributions from Skipper and Amrutanjan.
